Hurricane Beryl Resources

Do you have Damage?

The Texas Division of Emergency Management has activated its iSTAT Damage Assessment survey for residents to complete to help state and local emergency management officials across Texas identify and gain an understanding of damages that have occurred.

Connective has published a Hurricane Beryl Connective Needs Assessment Registry for residents to complete which will allow them to advocate for more resources for our community and strengthen recovery efforts

Crisis Cleanup (www.crisiscleanup.org) is a website tool and hotline used throughout the US. It connects disaster survivors who need property cleanup assistance with volunteers who can help. The hotline is staffed by volunteers like you who work from home as they have time. Survivors call the hotline, phone volunteers take the call, and enter the information on the website. Volunteer organizations claim cases, do the work, then close the case. Everyone is working from the same list which minimizes duplication of efforts and saves time, so more people get help. All services are free.

Boil water notices have been issued for several public water systems after power outages across the region following Hurricane Beryl, which hit the Texas coast early Monday. Notices have been issued for Harris County Municipal Utility District 421, Harris County Fresh Water Supply District 45, and the Western Trails Subdivision water system. In Montgomery County, notices have been issued for Oakwood, Decker Hills and Crystal Springs water systems. Notices have been issued for Polk County's Longhorn Valley and Garden Acres Subdivision water systems. According to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, children, seniors, and persons with weakened immune systems are particularly vulnerable to harmful bacteria and all customers should follow these directions.

To ensure the destruction of all harmful bacteria and other microbes, water for drinking, cooking, and ice-making should be boiled and cooled before use for drinking water or human consumption. Water should be brought to a vigorous rolling boil and then boiled for two minutes. In lieu of boiling, individuals may purchase bottled water or obtain water from some other suitable source for drinking water or human consumption purposes.
